Existentialist Ontology And Human Consciousness

Spinoza, in effect, denies that the human being is a union of two substances. The human mind and body are both expressions of a single thing: the person. And because there is no interaction between mind and body, the mind-body problem (body / mind) does not arise. Spinoza's Ethics : Knowledge. The human mind, as God, has ideas.

Spinoza: Ethics Summary - Philosophy & Philosophers

The paper presents several difficulties posed by consciousness, including the possible insolubility of the mind-body problem owing to "facts beyond the reach of human concepts", the limits of objectivity and reductionism, the "phenomenological features" of subjective experience, the limits of human imagination, and what it means to be a ...
