How To Become A Millionaire By 30: First Million Might Be The Easiest

Although being a millionaire sounds nice, it's not that impressive anymore thanks to inflation. In order to be a real millionaire, you will need to have a net worth of at least $3 million, not $1 million. A $1 million net worth provided a great lifestyle before 1990. Not so much today. If you retired today at 65 with $1 million, you may be able to spend $40,000 a year (4% withdrawal rate) for ...

I have a friend that I am watching in real time literally bankrupt themselves trying to find the golden NFT ticket that will turn them into a millionaire.. They've openly said as much. If it happens I'll eat my proverbial shoe but so far all I've seen come from it is them losing their job, home and college scholarship in the span of about 6 months.

20 years ago it probably was, but I think the meaning of the latte has changed, now that there's a Starbucks in every strip mall. It's a cultural symbol of the aspirational lower-middle class, who are supposedly spending money on frivolous luxuries to ape their betters, instead of drinking Folgers and making packed lunches, as befits their station.

But I acknowledge that not everyone is ready to make such changes. If you choose to have multiple kids in your 20s, for example, it becomes much more difficult to live on, say, $10k/year. On the other hand, a $100k family could certainly maintain a 50% or more savings rate, even with a pretty spendy middle-class-style life.
