NINE (9) STRANGE STORIES ...

The 9/11 attacks were a big, bad, crazy time in American history. It can be hard to wrap your head around all of the facets of that terrible day, which is probably why some people don't bother and instead invent elaborate conspiracies wherein the Koch brothers staged the whole thing to get a discount

The London Underground is used by over 2 million passengers every day on normal times, with 270 stations spread across the city. While many of us regularly hop on the tube for our journeys around London and know where to change on our daily commute, it's not very often that we stop and think about the origins behind some of the strangest station names.

A current story, still developing, that seems a bit strange: Peter Madsen is a Danish enthusiast who built a functional submarine. Kim Wall is a lady journalist from Sweden who is writing about Mr. Madsen. He agreed to take her on a cruise in his submarine. The submarine sank, and Mr. Madsen was rescued from the waters.

9/11 - Strange Unexplained Mysteries

The official story of the failed air defenses on 9/11 was changed several times and, in the end, paradoxically exonerated the military by saying that the military had lied many times about its response. The man who was behind several of the changing accounts was a specialist in political warfare (i.e. propaganda).
