SAT Subject Tests – How Tests Are Scored – The College Board
The system takes the circles that you filled in and calculates your raw score. Basically, this is the sum of points you earned based on the number of questions you answered correctly, minus a fraction of the number of the questions that you answered incorrectly: One point is added for each correct answer.

ACT / SAT Reading Tips: Wrong Answer Traps | College Prep ...
The test writer constructing an SAT reading question had to come up with four potential, yet wrong, answers. The correct answer is easy to write, but try developing four WRONG choices. An answer choice cannot be used on a test unless some students will select it. So ridiculous wrong answer choices won't appear on the SAT or ACT.

ACT / SAT Reading Tips: Wrong Answer Traps | College Prep ...
Speed is key on the SAT, and the quickest way to solve this problem is to imagine that RS is the diameter of a complete circle, says Prepscholar. You can do this because the picture shows two radii and two half-circles — put them together and you have one circle. Circumference = πd , so the answer is " πC ." 12n.

Math questions from the SATs that everyone gets wrong ...
Occasionally, an SAT will allow you to get one wrong answer in Math as you can see on Tests 4 and 8. However, I would not count on that, as it is not the norm. If you're aiming for 1600, strive for perfection in Math. To get an 800 in Evidence-Based Reading and Writing, you cannot get any questions wrong on the Writing and Reading portions.

How Many Questions Can You Miss for a Perfect SAT Score?
Answer Every Question . As of 2019, you are no longer penalized for wrong answers on the SAT. The redesigned test has withdrawn its penalty of 1/4 point for each incorrect answer, so guess, guess, guess away (using the process of elimination, of course). That said, take it slow to ensure that you are truly doing your best.

How Is the New SAT Scored?
Another difference in the scoring methodology is the elimination of point deductions for wrong answers. On the old SAT, you were docked a quarter of a point for every question you answered incorrectly. The SAT is now more like the ACT in that incorrect answers are treated the same as questions that were left blank (no points added or subtracted).

Prior to March 2016, the SAT did have a guessing penalty: a quarter of a point was subtracted from your raw score for every wrong answer. Since right answers were worth one point each, random guessing was likeliest to result in a score of zero. (With five answer choices, you'd pick the right answer about 20 percent of the time.

Should You Guess on the SAT and ACT? | The Princeton Review
The SAT® does not have a guessing penalty and only cares about the total number of correct answers. SAT® scale scores are how your raw scores translate when converted to section scores — these are between 200-800 for the two sections (Evidence-Based Reading and Writing and Math), to give you a total SAT® score between 400-1600.
